No evidence has been obtained to indicate whether she was struck by a mine or a torpedo, but officials believe a submarine was responsible. Although passengers' belongings have been crossing the channel daily on regular schedules since the beginning of the war, this is the first serious misadventure which has befallen any.

Edward Huxley, who witnessed the catastrophe from beginning to end, states that several passengers and a number of the crew undoubtedly were blown to atoms by the explosion.

Mr. Huxley told the Associated Press a remarkable story of the manner in which the forward part of the Sussex was torn off at the explosion's bridge. The remainder of the vessel was so little damaged that even the electric lights continued to burn.

Mr. Huxley described the scene on the Sussex after the explosion as follows: "The sea was smooth, the sun was shining and the weather made good time."

"I was standing on deck, just off of the captain's bridge, chatting with Mr. Drake. I had just looked at my watch and noticed that it was 3:05 p. m., when suddenly there was a muffled explosion. The whole forward part of the ship seemed to rise in the air and was torn away completely from the rest of the steamer. The Sussex had been cut cleanly in two at the bridge."

Fifteen or twenty persons were drowned by jumping overboard. "It soon became apparent that the after part of the ship, which was maintaining an even keel and holding steady, was in no immediate danger of sinking and the panic virtually ceased. Passengers then sat about giving first aid to the injured and helping to get the boats lowered."

"A number of injured persons were buried in the debris near the bridge."

"Seven persons, all terribly injured,

OLD FOLKS NEED 'CASCARETS' FOR LIVER, BOWELS

Salts, Calomel, Pills Act on Bowels Like Pepper Acts in Nostrils.

Enjoy Life! Don't Stay Bilious, Sick, Headachy and Constipated.

Get a 10-cent box now. Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. But age is never so negative as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are weaker. So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lax can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

attorney. The majority of the survivors agree with the opinion of the French admiralty that the Sussex was torpedoed by a submarine.

The Americans landed at Dover were: Francis Drake, Edward H. Huxley, Edward Marshall, Charles T. Crocker, George H. Crocker and William G. Penfield. G. H. Crocker and Mr. Penfield are in a hospital with fractured skulls.

BELIEVES VESSEL WAS STRUCK BY FLOATING MINE

Paris, March 25 (U. S. P. M.).—Norman Melke, an engineer on the steamer Northern, who was on his way to France to join his ship at La Penelle, expressed the opinion that it was a mine that struck the Sussex. "A torpedo," he said, "would have wrecked the vessel. But whatever it was, it blew the forepeak right off of her. There was a terrible explosion."

"A boat tackle broke, precipitating the accident into the water. There might have been forty of them. The women were wonderful. They took their places in the boats, nearly all of them being the wives or relatives of men who remained aboard."

"Things reached a crisis about twenty minutes after we struck. But it was found that the collision bulkheads had held and if they continued to do so all would be well for those remaining on board."

"The captain did everything possible after the explosion. About 11:30, after eight hours, a mine sweeper came alongside to aid us. It took the women off first and then some of the men. At that time, at the foot of the mainmast, a large number of the women were washed overboard. In many years of sailing in all the oceans, I never saw such a sight. It more than took the heart out of me."

"The first casualties must have been among the crew, because we were struck somewhere near the bow, where many of the crew, off watch, were taking their afternoon sleep."

"I should say there was about thirty lives lost through the explosion and another twenty through the boat tackle giving away and the panic that ensued immediately after the explosion."

LITERACY TEST OF IMMIGRATION BILL DEBATED

Republican Leader Mann Announces He Will Vote for Measure Previously Opposed by Him.

Washington, March 25.—A vote on the literacy test section of the proposed immigration bill was completed by the house in committee of the whole today, and a vote will be taken Monday to decide whether the provision, which has been held responsible for presidential vetoes of three previous immigration bills, shall be retained in the measure.

Republican Leader Mann spoke today against the literacy test, declaring that ability to read and write were more incidents of opportunity, but announcing that, notwithstanding, he would support the immigration bill because of that feature, which would support the literacy test regardless of whether the test were eliminated. He declared "every man of common sense" probably would seek to secure from Europe at the close of the war and he was unwilling to leave the country unprotected against the probability of the greatest flood of immigration the world has ever seen."

By a vote of 69 to 78 the house rejected a committee amendment denying admission to those legally charged with having committed a felony.

ORIENTAL OFFICERS DISCUSS SITUATION

(Associated Press Correspondence.)
Nanking, China, Feb. 15.—Lieutenant General Aoki, the Japanese officer who is now stationed at Shanghai, had an interview today in Nanking with General Kuo-chang, the military governor commanding the large garrison at this place. General Aoki discussed General Kuo about the situation on the Upper Yangtze and was assured that the government has now an abundance of troops in Szechuen province and will soon be able to suppress the Yunnanese revolutionaries who have invaded the territory north of their province. General Kuo told General Aoki that the Yunnanese are extremely short of money and consequently are limited in the amount of ammunition they can command. Consequently he believes the campaign must necessarily be a very brief one.

In discussing the reported troubles in Shansi and Kwangtung provinces, General Kuo said the disturbances reported from there are largely imaginary and the work of bandits.

When General Aoki inquired concerning the report that General Feng is supporting a plan for a federal state system under which the various provinces of China would be governed somewhat under the German plan, General Kuo said that he was not favoring any such system. "The monarchy has been decided upon by the people," he said. "The emperor has no right to refuse it. Moreover, I have been treated kindly and favorably by the emperor for a long time, and I support him with all sincerity. As to the question of the federal state system, that story was started by the rebels with the intention of disturbing the friendly feelings in the provinces. Positively I do not support it."

General Kuo told the Japanese officer that newspapers organized under the direction of the revolutionists in Shanghai and other foreign settlements are giving an erroneous impression concerning the conditions in China, and represent every bandit movement as the work of a large revolutionary force. The only disaffection of consequence is in Yunnan province, in the opinion of General Kuo, expressed to the Japanese officer. Kuo-chang has been overrun by the Yunnanese, but General Kuo does not believe the majority of the people either in Kweichow or in Yunnan are in sympathy with the revolution. It has been brought about chiefly through the efforts of ambitious leaders in his opinion.

The success of the revolution, he repeatedly supposed to depend on the attitude of General Feng Kuo-chang. While he remains loyal to Yuan Shih-kai the Lower Yangtze valley is believed to be safe. Should he throw the large Nanking garrison into the rebel camp the outcome of the revolution might be unfavorable to the Peking government.

LAST MEMBER OF INDIAN TRIBE DIES

San Francisco, March 25.—The last of the Yahi stone age tribe of Indians, which once thrived in California, east of the Sacramento, whose "discovery" in 1911, near Oroville, Calif., resulted in his adoption by savants of the University of California as a valuable anthropological acquisition, died today from tuberculosis, possibly brought on by the interruption of his wild, outdoor life.

Since shortly after his appearance, hungry and almost naked, in Oroville, he was maintained as a living exhibit in the affiliated colleges museum in San Francisco, where he kindled fire by rubbing two sticks together, fashioned arrowheads, and exhibited prowess in other primitive exploits, for the entertainment and instruction of thousands of visitors.

He died nameless, for "Lah" in the language of his vanished tribe, means man, and was given him by scholars. He was about 60 years old.

A magazine writer wants to know the difference between a "wrapper" and a "nugget." About $30 difference—or the difference between the cost of taking your wife out to dinner and the cost of the little afterthought "snack" you would offer a chorus girl.

A letter was received at the district attorney's office today from E. H. Williams, a tailor who did work for Peck while he was here. Williams declared Peck, on a visit to him on February 23, complained of pains in his stomach which he ascribed to the ice cream he had eaten at the home of his son-in-law. On each succeeding visit, according to Williams, Peck said that his suffering was more severe. On March 4, when Peck visited his tailor, Williams advised him to consult a physician, and Peck replied, according to the tailor, "I don't believe in medicine and I haven't done me any good."

Mr. Williams said tonight he would proceed with his plan to charge Waite with first degree murder and to have him indicted on the charge. All that is needed to complete the investigation by the grand jury, he declared is the testimony of the physicians who performed the autopsy on Peck's body. These witnesses will arrive here Monday from Grand Rapids. Dr. Waite's parents reached New York tonight.

JAP CANNOT BECOME AMERICAN CITIZEN

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADER WIRE.)
Honolulu, March 25.—American citizenship was denied to Takao Ozawa, a Japanese, in a test case here today. The court ruled that Japanese are Mongolians and that the word "white" does not include the Mongolian race.

At the same time two Filipinos were granted citizenship, though exception was noted by the district attorney. It was said that the department of justice at Washington, D. C., had instructed the district attorney to enter cancellation proceedings if the court granted Ozawa his citizenship papers.

Ozawa's appeal for American citizenship has been switched with keen interest by the Tokio press and by Americans and Japanese locally.

CARRANZA MOST IRRITATING TO ARMY OFFICERS

Delay in Granting Permission to Use Railroad for Hauling Supplies to Pershing Causes Much Inconvenience.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADER WIRE.)
San Antonio, Tex., March 25.—Carranza's delay in permitting the movement into Mexico over the Northwestern railway of supplies for the American troops has created an impatience at army headquarters that today was hardly disguised. The quartermaster's department has expressed the assumption that finally Carranza will authorize the use of the Mexican railroad and has sent to El Paso a quantity of stores for immediate shipment. Officers here did not credit the unofficial report that General Alvarez Obregon, Carranza's secretary of war, had said that no permission for use of the line would be given.

The utilization of the living corps for transmission of reports from the field was regarded at headquarters with keen satisfaction. The wireless has not been a success and in the absence of telegraphic wires, General Pershing has not been able to render detailed reports and for days at a time no report of any character has reached here from the front.

Unusually occasioned by the lack of news from cavalry columns was evident today at General Pershing's headquarters.

Important Realty Deal Closed.

San Antonio, Tex., March 25.—An important real estate deal was closed today when Col. Veneciano Jaramillo, through J. H. Hayward, sold the residence and lot on Lincoln avenue, adjoining the proposed new museum building, to Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. P. Waite for the account of Hon. Frank Springer. The house is a ten-room structure built by the war department for officers' quarters and had as its occupants many an officer who is famous in military history. It was formerly part of the Fort Marx military reservation and was decided to be sold for the account of the city and was in turn sold to former Internal Revenue Collector Henry P. Bardshar and by him to Colonel Jaramillo. The purchase of the property removes another obstacle out of the way of the construction of the new museum building as it will permit the setting back of the structure so as to give room for parking in front of it.
